Charles Meryon—born in 1821—was brought up to the navy, going first in 1837 to the Naval school at Brest. As a youth he sailed round the world. He touched at Athens; touched at the then savage coasts of New Zealand; made sketches, a few of which, in days when his greater work was most of it done, he used as material for some of his etchings. Art even then occupied him, and deeply interested as he soon got to be in it he seems to have had a notion that it was less dignified than the profession of the navy, and after awhile he chose deliberately the less dignified—because it was the less dignified. He would have us believe so at any rate. He wished his father to believe so. And in 1845, having served creditably and become a lieutenant, he resigned his commission.

A painter he could not be. The gods, who had given him even in his youth a poetic vision and a firmness of hand, had denied him the true sight of color, and I remember seeing hanging up in the salon of M. Barty, who knew him, a large impressive pastel of a ship cleaving her way through wide, deep waters, and the sea was red and the sunset sky was green; for Meryon was color-blind. He would have to be an engraver. He entered the workshop of one M. Bery, to whom in after times, as his wont was, he engraved some verses of his writing—appreciative verses, sincere and unfinished—"a toi, Bery, mon maitre." The etchings of Zeeman, the Dutchman, gave him the desire to etch. He copied with freedom and interest several of Zeeman's neat little plates and addressed him with praises, on another little copper, like the one to Bery—"to Zeeman, peintre des matelots."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Room in Which Napoleon Was Born.

His greatness still consecrates the place. Push back the jealousies and let in the light upon the mean beginnings of so stupendous a destiny. Here is the sedan chair, battered and faded, but a relic, and so sacred still. This is the bed on which he was born—hardly bigger than a couch. Here is madame's escritoire, where she must have done those household accounts (yearly more difficult to balance) with a little old frail child at her side sometimes, plucking at her dress and looking up awed (she is the one person in all the world of whom he is afraid) into her face. Here is her spinnet, with its yellow notes, which she played perhaps while those little kings and queens to be danced to her music, and the one born great (the others only have greatness thrust upon them) stood apart unchild-like and solitary. The very chairs and tables are the same. There is the narrow strip of bedroom which was his.

With fall came the "fattening time" for the hogs. They were then brought in from the distant fields, where they had passed the summer, and put in a pen by the side of the road. And, although within ten feet of the soldiers as they marched by, they were never seen, for the pen was completely covered by the winter's wood pile, except at the back, where there was a board fence through whose cracks the corn was thrown in. Whenever the passing French guard told us that an army was approaching the hogs were hurriedly fed, so that the army might go by while they were taking their after dinner nap and thus not reveal their presence by an escaped grunt or squeal. Fortunately the house was situated in a narrow valley, where the opportunities for bushwhacking were so great that the soldiers did not tarry long enough to search suspected wood piles.

On one occasion we thought the hogs doomed. A wagon broke down near the house, and the soldier went to the wood pile for a pole to be used in mending the break. Luckily he found a stick to his liking without tearing the pile to pieces. This suggested that some piece straight pieces be always left conveniently near for such an emergency, in case it should occur again.

Available Testimony.

The following story was told by Major Mensis of a Vincennes lawyer who appeared for the defendant in a trial by jury and put on the witness stand a boy from whose testimony he expected to gain a great deal. To the confusion of the attorney, the story told by the boy was greatly to the detriment of the defendant, and the attorney set to work to show that the boy was "worthless."

"What is your occupation?" he asked the boy.

"I work on my father's farm," the witness replied.

"You don't do much but sit around, do you?"

"Well, I help my father."

"But you're worthless, aren't you?" was the attorney's decisive question.

"I don't know whether I am or not," retorted the witness warmly.

Then the attorney took another tack.

"Your father's a worthless man, isn't he?"

"Well, he works about the farm."

The attorney here fastened an eye which gleamed with triumph on the jury and bailed the boy with a glance from the other and said, "Isn't it true that your father doesn't do enough work to prevent his being called worthless?"

The boy had chafed under these unpleasant questions, and, summoning his courage, he said loudly: "If you want to know so bad whether my father's worthless, ask him. There he is on the jury!"—Indianapolis Journal.

The Harming Age.

At what age do people marry? The most popular time for a woman to get married is from her twenty-first to her twenty-fifth year inclusive. More than one-half of the women who marry at all marry in these five years of their life, and another quarter marry between the ages of 20 and 25, and not more than a third between the ages of 25 and 30. The average age of marrying is just over 26 for women and just under 28 for men. These figures include remarriages. For spinsters only the average age is 26, and for bachelors 26½.

It is a noticeable fact that in the last ten years the average age of marrying has, for men and women alike, gone up half a year. Taking the complete quarters ending on the last days of March, June, September and December respectively, the December quarter is most prolific in marriages, and the spring and summer quarters come next, about equal, with the March quarter a long way behind.—New York Home Journal.

A Great French Etcher.

The "Gray Matter."

The writer has examined many brains of persons morally or intellectually below the average—such as murderers, negroes and others sunk in ignorance. He has invariably found the layer of vesicular, or gray matter, to be thicker than that of Daniel Webster's brain. Elephants, porpoises, whales, dolphins and the grampus all have this layer thicker than the most intellectual men.

Another great objection to locating mind in the gray matter of the brain is that this substance is found in the interior part of the spinal cord and in all the nerve centers throughout the body. So that, if mind is situated in it, it is not confined to the brain, but dwells in the spine also, and is distributed all through the human frame.

Still another objection lies in the fact that wherever the gray matter exists near the surface of the brain it consists of three distinct layers, separated by a white substance, and the outermost layer is white, not gray.—Dr. Joseph Simms in Popular Science Monthly.

A Silkworm of the Sea.

Silk is obtained from the shellfish known as the mussel (mytilus), which is found in the Mediterranean. This shellfish has the power of spinning a viscid silk which in Sicily is made into a regular and very handsome fabric. The silk is spun by the shellfish, in the first instance, for the purpose of attaching itself to the rocks. It is able to guide the delicate filaments to the proper place and there glue them fast, and if they are cut away it can reproduce them.

The material when gathered (which is done at low tide) is washed in soap and water, dried, straightened and carded, one pound of the coarse filament yielding about three ounces of fine thread, which when spun is of a lovely burnished golden brown color.—New York Herald.

To Jog His Memory.

Dean Pigeon says that many clergymen cannot trust themselves to repeat the most familiar prayers of the liturgy from memory, and he tells how Archdeacon Sinclair was much put out because he (Dean Pigeon) sat directly behind him at a public meeting. The dean was puzzled, but understood all when the archdeacon removed his hat and knelt to pray. In the crown of his hat was printed in large type, "Prevent us, O Lord," etc.

Confuted by an Axiom.

"Now, children, I want you all to remember that James Watt discovered the wonderful steam engine by simply watching the kettle boil."

"Please, m'am, I don't just see how that could be!"

"Why not?"

"Cause watch pots never boils."—Brooklyn Life.

No Way Out of It.

"We are worried about Julia. She got out of a sickbed to go to the matinee."

"How could she?"

"She had to go; she had a ticket."—Chicago Record.

PEACE OR WAR.

Mr. Croker having declared that the silver question was dead and that the New York Democratic Congressmen were elected by ignoring that issue in the Chicago platform, Mr. Bryan, in response to a letter from Mr. Wells J. Abbott, of New York, said in part:

"The national platform declares the money question to be the paramount issue, and I fully indorse that declaration. So believing, I could not directly or indirectly encourage any State to abandon the national platform."

"While the Democrats of the west and south have no right to force the national platform upon the people of New York yet the Democracy of the nation does have a right to expect the Democrats of New York to stand by the platform or announce their hostility. We had ought to know whether the New York Democracy means peace or war."

"To ignore the national platform in a State convention will be notice that the Democrats of New York are hostile to that platform, but lack the courage to declare it openly. The platform of '96 will be reaffirmed in 1900, and I for one would like to know as soon as possible whether we are to regard the New York Democrats as allies or as enemies."

"I believe that the restoration of bimetalism is necessary and that 16 to 1 is the only ratio at which bimetalism can be restored, and I have no right to expect favors from those who are hostile to this doctrine."

"We were embarrassed in the last campaign by the fact that the Democrats of your State went to Chicago to oppose the platform which was adopted. Unless the party in New York expects to repeat this experiment in 1900 it should lose no time in taking a firm stand upon the Chicago platform."

"In urging this course upon Tammany and the Democracy of New York, I ought to suggest that the party in New York has something at stake as well as the party in the nation."

"Democracy was defined at Chicago, and the definition is so satisfactory that no material change will be made in that definition for years to come. I hope the New York Democrats—for their good as well as the good of the party and country at large—will speedily bring themselves within the definition by giving an unqualified indorsement to the Chicago platform."

A CHARGE CENTER SHOT.

It is nonsense to suppose that the gold standard of finance is being taught at the Reno University. Prof. Robert Lewers is the teacher of political economy at the University. He was formerly Principal of the Dayton public schools, and unless he has changed greatly in his belief since leaving this place, he is as ardent a free coinage man as there is in the State. This is probably another scheme of the Nevada gold bugs to make it appear that the Silver party is antagonistic to the University. The work is too stringy. —Lyon County Times.

The Nevada "goldbug" who formulated the "scheme" is a man who voted for the demonetization of silver in 1873. His name is William M. Stewart, and his occupation, congressional attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a gold-bug corporation of Kentucky. He was the one, and the only one, who ever made such a charge against Prof. Lewers. He belittled it out one night at the Riverside hotel in Reno in connection with a whole lot of maledictions against this county and the State University with threats to get even with the people of Washoe for their opposition to him for United States Senator.

You should be careful how you strike out in the dark Mr. Times, for you are liable to unintentionally hit the right man, which you certainly have done in this instance.

The Gazette is mistaken in its supposition concerning the authorship of the resolution in the Democratic State platform relative to the holding of the Philippine Islands by the United States. It also is evidently mistaken in regard to the JOURNAL's position upon expansion. Our evening contemporary constructs opposition to Algerism as inimical to the general principle of territorial expansion, while the JOURNAL distinguishes a wide difference between the two. Wipe the Algerism dust from your eyes, neighbor, and you, too, may be able to draw the line with more precision between honest criticism of the methods of an incompetent, if not dishonest, public official, and opposition to a principle, which you in your partisan zeal believe to be one and inseparable.

ONLY six Republicans opposed the passage of the Hall bill for the army reorganization in the House, and only four Democrats voted for it. The bill is essentially an Alger measure; his suggestions were embodied in it, the administration approved them and the party dutifully fell into line and passed it. It provides for the appointment of hundreds of officers from civil life and makes it possible for Alger to recruit the staffs, commissary and medical departments from the ranks of political followers. While an adequate army ought to be maintained, any increase under an incompetent War Department is worse than folly. Alger should be deposed. It is nonsensical to increase the army under such a head.

THE WATER QUESTION.

There is at this time, or there will be in the near future, an effort made to have a law passed by the Legislature authorizing the people of Reno to vote on a proposition to purchase the town water works of the Water, Land and Light Company. Upon its face the proposition looks like there might be in it some fairness and justice to the owners of the stock and lands of the company. If the ultimate object of the law is to give to the people an opportunity to pass upon the question of purchase of the company's works and water rights, no fair-minded person could advance a reasonable objection to the law, but if the law is intended for another purpose than the one appearing on the face of the bill, that other purpose, in justice to the people, should be made known.

It is the opinion of a few of the best people of Reno, who have had experience and opportunity to observe the workings of the water question in Reno, that the real purpose of the law and the object sought to be accomplished through the law, is a repeal of the law incorporating the town. The JOURNAL is of the opinion that the repeal of the town incorporation act is the real object in view.

Funeral of Mrs. Moore.

The funeral of Mrs. E. B. Moore took place from Cummings & Stockton's undertaking parlors yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Moore was known in Reno, and was coming here in company with her husband when the lamentable accident occurred that resulted in her death.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were driving in a light spring wagon on their way to the town of Wells, some sixty miles distant from their home. Night overtook them, and in some way the horses left the road. Snow being on the ground, in an effort to regain the road the carriage slipped and upset on a side hill, the dashboard striking Mrs. Moore upon the neck and killing her instantly.

Mrs. Moore was aged 53 years and a native of Arkansas. She leaves a husband and two daughters to mourn her loss. One daughter, Mrs. Greathouse, resides on the meadows.

A Plumas Boy Killed at Manila.

On the list of those killed in the late conflict with the insurgent forces at Manila occurs the name of Private Frank Smith, Co. B, First Washington Infantry Volunteers.

Frank Smith was born and reared in Plumas county, California, and was the first cousin of A. M. Smith of this place. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith of Quincy. As first reports of the killed are always unreliable we hope that this is not true and that the Plumas soldier boy is still among the living.

Death of a Pioneer.

Joseph F. Angell, a pioneer resident of Silver City, died at that place last Saturday. Deceased was prominent in local politics and was held in high esteem by the community in which he had lived for more than a third of a century. He was a native of Rhode Island, aged 76 years. He leaves a wife and seven children. The funeral services were conducted at the hall of the Silver City Miners' Union, after which the remains were brought to Reno where they were interred last Monday.

Geo. B. Russell and Omer H. Keith will move the Elko Argonaut plant to Golconda where they will start a semi-weekly paper. They are industrious and enterprising young men and the JOURNAL wishes them success in their new field of labor. The paper will be named the "Golconda News."

We All Cling to Life.

"The strangest thing in life is the way we cling to it," said a physician whose practice has given him abundant opportunity to study the seamy side of things. "Five minutes ago I gave a dime to an old beggar man who has been coming here regularly for years. He is broken by age and tortured by an incurable cancerous malady that renders him repulsive and keeps him in continual pain. I know his history."

"He is ignorant and he has been poor. In his early life he was a sailor before the mast, and from what I can learn he suffered all the hardships of that calling without seeing any of its pleasant and adventurous side. He never married and never had any family or home. I have questioned him closely, and I have been unable to discover one scrap of genial reminiscence in the sordid, squalid, miserable record of his career. He has absolutely nothing that he can ponder over with the slightest degree of pleasure, and his present situation is simply frightful."

"He sleeps in a shed back of a negro hovel and depends on alms for his food and clothes; yet, in spite of it all, he is eager to keep on living and rebels at once at the bare thought of death. He isn't afraid, but he wants to continue to live. It's a mystery of mysteries, and the case is not exceptional either. There are plenty of others exactly like it."

—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Death of Carlyle.

Uncle had not been considered seriously ill more than about a fortnight or so before the end, writes Carlyle's nephew, John C. Aitken, in The Atlantic. The vital spark of life toward the last days kept flickering in a way so extraordinary that the doctor declared he had never met such tenacity of life and vitality in the whole course of his varied London and other experience. Dear uncle, the good, true and noble old man that he was, really suffered little in the way of pain for some weeks before his death, which was itself little more than a gentle flickering sleep, ending in a scarcely heard last sigh of sound.

While lying in a comatose or unconscious state his mind seemed to wander back to old Annapolis memories of his ever loved ones and their surroundings; his mother holding her supreme seat, surrounded by a trooping throng of once familiar faces not very greatly less dear to him. He died full of years, with all his weary task of world's work well and nobly done, and leaves no mortal behind him who does not love and reverence his life and memory.

False Alarm.

Wife (time, midnight)—Hark! Husband, wake up! I hear the rustling of silk and the clang of chains.

Husband—You do? Horrors! Then the reports are true I was told this house was haunted.

Wife (much relieved)—Oh, is that all? I was afraid that Fido had broken loose and was tearing my new ball dress.—London Fun.

Green is the color most beneficial to the eye in diffused light and reds and pinks the most harmful. In a strong direct light, however, blue and neutrals are the best for the eyes and pure white the most harmful, as is proved by the phenomenon snow blindness.

Mr. McKernan died about one year ago and his beloved wife has passed to the great beyond where parting will be no more. WHEREAS, There is now pending in Congress a bill providing for the use of the government credit in the construction of said canal, prescribing among other things that the United States shall own absolutely ninety-two and one-half per cent of the stock under the pending bill, and by reason of such ownership shall have full control and direction of the work of construction and fix the rates of toll; therefore,

Resolved, by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That our Senators and Representative in Congress be requested to earnestly support the passage of this measure. Also that the Governor be requested to forward to each of them a copy of these resolutions.

An Illiterate Country Editor.

The editor of the White Pine News shows an amazing ignorance of college affairs by endeavoring to attach the increased University tax with the prospect of an eastern football coach next season.

My dear unsophisticated friend, were you raised so utterly foreign to institutions of higher education that you are not aware such procedure on the part of any college in the world would cause universal condemnation by every thinking man, woman and child who heard of it? We inform you, Mr. White Pine News, or what ever your name may be, that University athletic associations are obliged to rustle for themselves and such a thing as a State tax for their support is unheard of.

We have read many editorials written by illiterate country newspapermen, but never before one so indicative of absolute ignorance upon a common, well known topic, that of amateur athletics. We advise you to subscribe for any one of the popular weeklies, Harper's or Leslie's, for instance, and read up on the subject. If you follow this kindly advice you may not make such blunders in the future, and should your little sheet fall into the hands of a college bred man, he may not then have cause to laugh at absurd suppositions printed therein.

Last Night's Musicals.

Last evening's musicals were an entertainment of the first class. Miss Brown, the leading attraction, has a voice of great cultivation, pure in tone, full in volume and of the richest quality. It is not easy to describe such a voice, one had better hear it and enjoy it.

Mr. Ballard has complete command of his cello and shows the wonderful power of the instrument.

Miss Crist is a pianist of great merit and her work is of the best.

The entertainment is by all odds one of the very best that has visited Carson for a long time, and the music-loving people of Carson will be glad to welcome them again whenever they care to return.—Appeal.

The Quinn Case.

The State vs. John Quinn, charged with disturbing the peace, was submitted to a jury yesterday afternoon.

In thirty minutes after they retired the jury agreed upon a verdict of not guilty. E. E. Copeland, of the law firm of Webster & Copeland, and Judge Haydon conducted the case in a very able manner for the defense. The opinion of the friends of the prosecution was that a conviction would follow from the evidence given, but a jury of good men came to a different conclusion and acquitted the defendant.

The Concert To-night.

The concert to be given by Miss Mollie Adelia Brown and company this evening, promises to be one of the finest musical treats the people of Reno have had an opportunity to listen to. All of the artists have received the very best of compliments from the press generally and that is proof positive of their ability. The following is from the Sacramento Record-Union of the 3d inst:

Miss Mollie Adelia Brown's evening of music last night at the Congregational Church was a delightful one. The music lovers who remained away missed a treat. Miss Brown's voice is a perfectly developed, pure soprano, of broad register; ample volume and fine quality and it is handled with notable skill. Her upper tones are remarkably far up the scale above the staff—we will not venture to say just where—and are as clear and liquid there as in the lower divisions of her register.

She understands precisely what she can do and hence there is precision and no hesitancy in her attack. Miss Brown came among strangers unaided by social eclat and not puffed extravagantly, and she won by merit and the purity, sweetness and expressiveness of a natural gift which only the few possess.

Mr. Ballard, the cellist, is a master of the instrument, a player of exceeding refinement of manner and depth of feeling. He dangerously competed for first place in the estimation of the audience, which gave him plaudits not accorded to the many.

Miss Crist is an accomplished pianiste, very considerably above the average of the "accomplished," for in two distinct instances she proved by her knowledge of technique and the intelligence of her interpretation that she is a player of exceptional merit. The concert was an entire success and deserved all the praise showered upon it by the audience.

A Good Man Gone.

Jacob Klein, one of the oldest and best citizens of Carson, died in San Francisco last Sunday evening. He had lived since 1859 in Carson, where he had large property interests at the time of his death. Although a thorough-going business man, Jake Klein was the possessor of a big and generous heart. He was truthful and accommodating to a fault. He was standing bondsman for federal, State and county officers at Carson, and was on several occasions subjected to serious inconvenience and loss on account of his readiness to accommodate in that respect. He will be greatly missed in the community where he lived so long and where he was so generally respected and beloved. He will be buried at Oakland, where the funeral takes place to-day.

An Interesting Case.

All people are interested in a new case that has recently cropped up in Reno, and they have good reason for being so. This case contains many striking features. It is Mr. F. P. Dann's show case on Virginia street, down by the iron bridge. It is very beautiful, his new window display of all that is modern in photography. There one may see large opalotypes small autotypes and lovely porcelains. Just think! Artistic photographs on genuine porcelain. And what do you think of it? He makes photographs on handkerchiefs—silk handkerchiefs. What more appropriate present could be imagined than one of these with your photo on it? tf

Mary McKernan died at her home on Truckee Meadows last evening, aged 65 years 1 month and 13 days. The deceased was a native of Ireland and was very much beloved by all who knew her. Mr. McKernan and family came to Reno in 1875 and in 1877 the family removed to the meadows where they have since resided. Mr. McKernan died about one year ago and his beloved wife has passed to the great beyond where parting will be no more. The deceased has left behind to mourn the loss of a good and true mother a daughter, Miss Jennie McKernan, who resides in Reno.

An Illiterate Country Editor.

The editor of the White Pine News shows an amazing ignorance of college affairs by endeavoring to attach the increased University tax with the prospect of an eastern football coach next season.

My dear unsophisticated friend, were you raised so utterly foreign to institutions of higher education that you are not aware of such procedure on the part of any college in the world would cause universal condemnation by every thinking man, woman and child who heard of it. We inform you, Mr. White Pine News, or what ever your name may be, that University athletic associations are obliged to rustle for themselves and such a thing as a State tax for their support is unheard of.

We have read many editorials written by illiterate country newspapermen, but never before one so indicative of absolute ignorance upon a common, well known topic, that of amateur athletics. We advise you to subscribe for any one of the popular weeklies, Harper's or Leslie's, for instance, and read up on the subject. If you follow this kindly advice you may not make such blunders in the future, and should your little sheet fall into the hands of a college bred man, he may not then have cause to laugh at absurd suppositions printed therein.

Last Night's Musicals.

Last evening's musicals were an entertainment of the first class. Miss Brown, the leading attraction, has a voice of great cultivation, pure in tone, full in volume and of the richest quality. It is not easy to describe such a voice, one had better hear it and enjoy it.

Mr. Ballard has complete command of his cello and shows the wonderful power of the instrument.

Miss Crist is a pianist of great merit and her work is of the best.

The entertainment is by all odds one of the very best that has visited Carson for a long time, and the music-loving people of Carson will be glad to welcome them again whenever they care to return.—Appeal.

The Quinn Case.

The State vs. John Quinn, charged with disturbing the peace, was submitted to a jury yesterday afternoon. In thirty minutes after they retired the jury agreed upon a verdict of not guilty. E. E. Copeland, of the law firm of Webster & Copeland, and Judge Hayden conducted the case in a very able manner for the defense. The opinion of the friends of the prosecution was that a conviction would follow from the evidence given, but a jury of good men came to a different conclusion and acquitted the defendant.

The Concert To-night.

The concert to be given by Miss Mollie Adelia Brown and company this evening, promises to be one of the finest musical treats the people of Reno have had an opportunity to listen to. All of the artists have received the very best of compliments from the press generally and that is proof positive of their ability. The following is from the Sacramento Record-Union of the 3d inst:

Miss Mollie Adelia Brown's evening of music last night at the Congregational Church was a delightful one. The music lovers who remained away missed a treat. Miss Brown's voice is a perfectly developed, pure soprano, of broad register; ample volume and fine quality and it is handled with notable skill. Her upper tones are remarkably far up the scale above the staff—we will not venture to say just where—and are as clear and liquid there as in the lower divisions of her register.

She understands precisely what she can do and hence there is precision and no hesitancy in her attack. Miss Brown came among strangers unaided by social eclat and not puffed extravagantly, and she won by merit and the purity, sweetness and expressiveness of a natural gift which only the few possess.

Mr. Ballard, the cellist, is a master of the instrument, a player of exceeding refinement of manner and depth of feeling. He dangerously competed for first place in the estimation of the audience, which gave him plaudits not accorded to the many.

Miss Crist is an accomplished pianiste, very considerably above the average of the "accomplished," for in two distinct instances she proved by her knowledge of technique and the intelligence of her interpretation that she is a player of exceptional merit. The concert was an entire success and deserved all the praise showered upon it by the audience.

A Good Man Gone.

Jacob Klein, one of the oldest and best citizens of Carson, died in San Francisco last Sunday evening. He had lived since 1859 in Carson, where he had large property interests at the time of his death. Although a thorough-going business man, Jake Klein was the possessor of a big and generous heart. He was truthful and accommodating to a fault. He was standing bondsman for federal, State and county officers at Carson, and was on several occasions subjected to serious inconvenience and loss on account of his readiness to accommodate in that respect. He will be greatly missed in the community where he lived so long and where he was so generally respected and beloved. He will be buried at Oakland, where the funeral takes place to-day.

An Interesting Case.

All people are interested in a new case that has recently cropped up in Reno, and they have good reason for being so. This case contains many striking features. It is Mr. F. P. Dann's show case on Virginia street, down by the iron bridge. It is very beautiful, his new window display of all that is modern in photography. There one may see large opalotypes small autotypes and lovely porcelains. Just think! Artistic photographs on genuine porcelain. And what do you think of it? He makes photographs on handkerchiefs—silk handkerchiefs. What more appropriate present could be imagined than one of these with your photo on it? tf
